Dear Vinay,

Following on from our meeting on Friday at Lincoln, I attach a revised Memorandum of Understanding between our two organisations.

Could you copy this in to the Chairman for comment and any changes that he may feel are appropriate, as I would very much like to sign off on this before we sit down to agree a schedule of financial arrangements. I will bring a "hard copy" with me on Tuesday.

I have moved some of my plans around and expect to be in Jaipur from the 18th of March until the 28th and David Wing will join me there on the 26th together with another member of our team Mr Andrew Robinson [Finance Director]

It looks as though Dr Marsh and Ruchi Aggarwal from University of Lincoln will be in Jaipur during the week commencing the 19th March so, all these plans should dovetail well.

I look forward to seeing you at ICICT on Tuesday.

Best wishes

Peter

Examiner's Evaluation Report on Ph.D., Thesis entitled "CERTAIN INVESTIGATIONS ON ENHANCING AND OPTIMIZING TASK SCHEDULING IN CLOUD COMPUTING" by Ms. RAJAKUMARI, K. (Ref. No. 11210932008).

The research scholar has proposed a solution for the most challenging process in cloud computing is task scheduling since the determination of task completion time is complex due to the distribution of task between more than one virtual machine. There are different algorithms are provided by many researchers for task scheduling. Such algorithms are scheduled the tasks based on the less execution time, waiting time, makespan, resource utilization and priority. However, various issues of task scheduling such as optimal solutions of task scheduling performance are addressed in cloud computing. To achieve better optimal solutions, in this research, enhanced optimization algorithms are proposed..

The work carried out in the present thesis arrangements as follows

Chapter 1 discuss in detail about the introduction and what's done on existing works.

Chapter 2 illustrates the literature review done on existing works of background material and previous work that are necessary for understanding the discussions to follow.

Chapter 3 proposes the methods of using dynamic weighted round robin algorithm to solve cloud scheduling problems.

Chapter 4 proposes the methods of using ant algorithm to solve scheduling problems in clouds.

V. Cleer

1 | Page

Chapter 5 employs implementation of Fuzzy Hybrid Particle Swarm Parallel Ant Colony Optimization and compares the results.

Chapter 6 concludes the thesis, with its findings and discusses the possible future work.

To Summarize

The research has designed and used in this research a major objective of this research is effectively enhancing the scheduling of task in cloud computing which is according to some rules. There are different Meta-heuristic algorithms such as Genetic Algorithm (GA), Particle Swarm Optimization (PSO), Ant Colony Optimization (ACO), Artificial Bee Colony (ABC) and Parallel Ant Colony Optimization (PACO) are developed for task scheduling in cloud computing environment. By using such algorithms, the tasks are scheduled efficiently in terms of minimized execution time, waiting time, response time, makespan and utilization of resource. However, the issue of task scheduling is not only for achieving high cloud performance, but also for satisfying various cloud clients demand in an equitable manner for improving the overall performance of the cloud computing infrastructure. Hence in this research, the overall performance of the task scheduling is increased by enhanced optimization algorithms.

Final Recommendation

In view of the above evaluation and review, I am confident that the thesis of Ms. RAJAKUMARI, K is commendable and full fills the requirements of Doctor of Philosophy Degree at Anna University, Chennai, Tamilnadu, India. Hence I Recommend acceptance of the thesis in the present form and further based on the standard attained, I classify the work as COMMENDED.

The following technical questions are to be addressed at the time of viva voce.

1. Discuss the proposed Maximising the throughput of the network?
2. What are the advantages of using this Proposed Dynamic Weighted Round Robin (DWRR) Scheduling in Proposed Research?
3. What percentage of accuracy has been proved?
4. Have you used any standard dataset has been used? How many samples has undertaken for this research?
5. Describe the Fuzzy Hybrid Particle Swarm Parallel Ant Colony Optimization In Cloud Computing
